

You are cordially invited to the next
PMI Western Australia Chapter Meeting & AGM

5.30pm for 6.00pm, Wednesday 14th October 2009
The Celtic Club, 48 Ord Street, West Perth.

This month's Guest Speaker:

Todd Hutchison PMP

Master Project Coach

People Rich Pty Ltd

Surviving the Communications Game – Speaking to their Communication Style

Master Project Coach, author and international project management consultant, Todd Hutchison, will explain the three key different communications styles of your project team and other key stakeholders. He will share with you the system that helps identify your style and those you engage with to help explain how to better communicate with people the project is engaging. Understanding these human representation systems will enrich your relationships, improve your communications and help you understand how to better lead and engage your project team.

This dynamic and interactive session will have you totally engaged while teaching you a key technique that can improve all your relationships.

From attending this presentation you will learn:

- What human representation system you have;
- How to identify the best communication style of stakeholders;
- What each communication style needs to be engaged; and
- How you can use the knowledge to improve relationships.

Please register by COB Monday 12th October using this link

<http://www.wapmi.org.au/events/eventregoct.php>

Cost: Chapter members and special guests free, non-members $10

Soft drinks and nibbles are included.

Enquiries please email: admin@wapmi.org.au

Presenter(s) Biography

Todd Hutchison PMP

MBA MCom MPD TVOCP DipCD AdvDipPM AssocDipEng MasterCoach MasterMLP

People Rich Pty Ltd

Certified Project Management Professional, accredited Master Project Director and the National Chairman of the Australian Project Management Institute (PMI) Council, Todd Hutchison is recognised as one of Australia's leading project management consultants and coaches.

Todd has been formally recognised as a pre-eminent business leader in Australia under the age of 40 by WA Business News. He is also a graduate and Fellow of the prestigious Leadership Western Australia program. IN addition to his National role with PMI, he is the Chairman of the Swan TAFE Audit Committee and the Executive Chairman and Managing Director of People Rich Pty Ltd.

Todd has over twenty years experience in project management and is a practicing project manager, educator, consultant and coach. Having worked at Board, portfolio (in Executive Director roles), program and project management levels, Todd has a deep appreciation of how to take strategy through to successful implementation using project management. He is an international speaker (accredited professional speaker by the National Speakers Association of Australia), graduate of the professional speakers academy and an accredited trainer specialising in leadership, personal performance, coaching, and project management.

Todd has some fifteen tertiary qualifications across the disciplines of engineering, business, commerce and information technology, including a Masters of Business Administration in Technology Management from Deakin University, and a Masters of Commerce from Curtin University of Technology.

Having significant experience in recovering troubled projects, establishing project and program management offices and implementing project management methodologies, Todd started recognising the importance in understanding the human aspects of project management. He later dedicated his research and studies in psychology and human behavioural sciences, and has become an internationally certified as a Master Coach, Master NLP (neuro linguistic programming – the psychology of excellence) and a DISC Behavioural Consultant.